9. Houses in Great Western Park, Didcot, remain on plan and a decade to complete seems to be the estimated time for delivery of this project. If this is true, why are more houses being proposed when houses remain unsold at this location? The answer is simple ? houses in the Green Belt command a premium and sell quicker than those which are not. The green belt has protected us from Oxford's expansion for decades and the Vale of White Horse has managed within very short order to bow to the will of property developers and ignore the public at large.
