Q5. Please provide your comments below:

Proposals for buffer zones around watercourses are welcomed however I feel any new large developments which incorporate the use of SUDS schemes with discharge to existing watercourses from balancing ponds etc should consider the effects downstream of these sites. Particular notice should be given to areas where previously agricultural greenfield runoff was the only source of surface water to effect these. Owners of land downstream from developments face a considerable change in the onus to riparian duties when short stretches of watercourse now become extremely important to maintain. Developers should be required to enter a maintenance contract to ensure no hardship on persons beyond those previously encountered.
