As a former Abingdon Town Councillor I come late into discussions of the Local Plan.

The overview I have is one of PROFITABLE LAND SALES to accommodate new housing by Local Landowners (I note that Radley College is not named???)

Next there is no acknowledgement of the available adjacent PUBLIC OWNED LAND in the airfield (formerly Royal Air Force). The public would gain if this land were used rather than that of private owners.

The very implementation works would DISRUPT EXISTING RESIDENTS in many ways whereas one unified development on one site would be less so.

An airfield development COULD BE A LARGER contribution to the housing needs of the county.

Is it too late to consider such an option?

Sincerely Yours,
Colin Jarvis
