

To whom this may concern,

I am writing with regards to the review of the Green Belt in Wootton. I would like to strongly object to the removal of the Green Belt protection and the housing development that would replace this wonderful area of open space and natural beauty.

Wootton is a lovely village which is renowned for its beautiful open spaces and spectacular rural views and I truly believe that it would be a horrible mistake to destroy more of the little countryside that is now left in the UK.

Wootton is a quiet and peaceful village which has a strong sense of community and local amenities to support its current residents. In building more houses Wootton would lose this village charm and become yet another characterless urban area. I feel that this would be a great shame to lose such a delightful village and I therefore urge you to think about the effects these plans will have on those currently living in Wootton.

I really do hope that the council does value the opinions of its local people and will therefore take their views into account as this is an issue that will strongly impact on their lives.
